

PEPP-TALK

with Harry Pepper

This week's retiree action at the upper course was threatened by heavy cloud and rain in the early going but eventually the sky cleared and we had blue skies until the completion of our round. However the rains came again after we finished and dampened the last holes of our visitors from across the line.

When we teed off the count of golfers on the course was just under 30. Eight golfers from the Colville club came along and boosted our numbers. They were caught in a couple of heavy showers before they made it into the club house. Yet the weather didn't scare them; they had lunch and took off for another nine.

Ball winners in the low net and hidden hole competition were veteran Trail golfer Tommy Harrison with a sparkling 33, Ron Gardner and Phil Bateman at 34, Bill Chartres with a 35 and on a draw among six players, Al Turner. One of our visitors from Colville, Neil Garrison, was at 36. The hidden hole failed to show the required number of strokes to win a ball.

Talking to one of our visitors I learned that the Colville course is looking real sharp and they also have a new pro in charge at the popular Elks course just outside Colville.

Remember that golf scuttlebutt sheet that used to originate down in Colville? I enquired about it and was told that it is no longer being published. Pat Graham used to edit it. I missed getting it.

Next week, Rich Watkinson and I will be looking after things and we'll be trying for something in the way of a change in the format.

The two Rossland teams which went up to Kamloops for the Slo-Pitch tourney last weekend didn't win any of the silverware but from all reports a good time was enjoyed by all who travelled up there.

The Legion Royals won two games in "A" and were beaten in the semi-finals for a 2-1 record while the Super-Scrap team lost one in "A", won one in "B" and then were knocked from competition with their second loss.

Among those on the trip for the Royals were Bruce and Jon Holm, John Habicht, Skip Ferguson and Emil Shurney while Miles Smitten came in from Williams Lake where he teaches school. On the Scrap team were Cam the number of players required and Labatts took the points. Rossland was hammered 4-1 in Nelson Wednesday.

Golden City Days preparations are rapidly falling into place. A meeting of the committee was held Wednesday and I should have a detailed report for next week's column.

In other news of interest, I understand the money situation is OK and work on the Lions' trailer park, the museum and the miners hall will be able to proceed this summer. One requisite, I understand is that an overseer for all these projects is needed. Given this, all projects should be able to move toward completion and we shall be able to see what we have accomplished and enjoy the end result.

To wind up this week, everyone is looking forward to Sunday's big football game between the Lions and Bombers. Lion fans will be hoping for Dewalt and Co. to come up with a big win and remain undefeated, while those who pull for Winnipeg will be hoping that Brock can pull off another big one. I'm going with the Lions with reservations; that Bomber win on Sunday in Edmonton was no fluke.

skies until the completion of our round. However the rains came again after we finished and dampened the last holes of our visitors from across the line.

in a couple of heavy showers before they made it into the club house. Yet the weather didn't scare them; they had lunch and took off for another nine.

Chartres with a 35 and on a draw among six players, Al Turner. One of our visitors from Colville, Neil Garison, was at 36. The hidden hole failed to show the required have a new pro in charge at the popular Elks course just outside Colville.

Remember that golf scuttlebutt sheet that used to originate down in Colville? I enquired about it and was told that it is no longer being published. Pat Graham used to edit it. I missed getting it.

Next week, Rich Watkinson and I will be looking after things and we'll be trying for something in the way of a change in the format.

The two Rossland teams which went up to Kamloops for the Slo-Pitch tourney last weekend didn't win any of the silverware but from all reports a good time was enjoyed by all who travelled up there.

The Legion Royals won two games in "A" and were beaten in the semi-finals for a 2-1 record while the Super-Scrap team lost one in "A", won one in "B" and then were knocked from competition with their second loss.

Among those on the trip for the Royals were Bruce and Jon Holm, John Habicht, Skip Ferguson and Emil Shurney while Miles Smitten came in from Williams Lake where he teaches school. On the Scrap team were Cam Jensen, Ken Dixon, Peter Bouchier, Bob Profili, Clare Anderson and Joe Zanussi. I've probably missed somebody but as I was unable to make the trip I had to rely on information passed on and names are sometimes hard to remember. I'm just glad to get what I can and I didn't miss anyone intentionally.

Monday night the Labatts were supposed to play the Trail Spurs, however the Trail squad could not raise Golden City Days preparations are rapidly falling into place. A meeting of the committee was held Wednesday and I should have a detailed report for next week's column.

In other news of interest, I understand the money situation is OK and work on the Lions' trailer park, the museum and the miners hall will be able to proceed this summer. One requisite, I understand is that an overseer for all these projects is needed. Given this, all projects should be able to move toward completion and we shall be able to see what we have accomplished and enjoy the end result.

To wind up this week, everyone is looking forward to Sunday's big football game between the Lions and Bombers. Lion fans will be hoping for Dewalt and Co. to come up with a big win and remain undefeated, while those who pull for Winnipeg will be hoping that Brock can pull off another big one. I'm going with the Lions with reservations; that Bomber win on Sunday in Edmonton was no fluke.